

Spelling list: Common words - set 2

The words in this list are commonly misspelled, even though they appear frequently in both written and spoken English. Understanding the meanings of these words is important. For example, could expresses possibility, should offers advice, would is used for polite requests or hypothetical situations, and friend refers to a close companion. Learning to spell these words correctly is key for clear communication and written fluency. Try a Look, Say, Cover, Write, Check activity to test your skills.

could	We could hear the wolves howling.
should	You should put a coat on before you go out.
would	Would you like a strawberry milkshake?
other	Let's walk on the other side of the street.
another	Would you like another drink?
any	Would you like any help?
anywhere	I cant find my phone anywhere .
many	Greece has many ancient ruins.
friend	My best friend never ceases to amuse me.
build	They wanted to build a house.
people	I was curious to see how many people turned up.
sure	Are you sure you don't want to come to the party?
minute	That clock is ten minutes slow.
woman	The woman sailed around the world.
because	We were late because of the traffic.
beautiful	There's a beautiful view from my balcony.